

national flat rates

Predictable. Reliable.

If your company makes a high volume of mobile calls, one of the most effective ways of bringing expenses under control is through transparent and predictable national voice and data rates. Until now this has been difficult to manage centrally for several countries – but we have a plan to change all that.

the Power of Alliance

As an alliance of four leading operators, FreeMove offers multinational companies a unique National Flat Rates plan, which includes most national voice and data usage across many European countries and the USA.

This means you're better able to compare your mobile voice and data pricing on a like-for-like basis in each country, and bring purchasing and management together centrally through your Global Account Manager.

Get the basics right, with your national calls and data included in our simple mobile plans.

What is FreeMove National Flat Rates?

For just one flat monthly price per user, the majority of national voice and data usage is included. What's more, mobile-to-mobile calls are unlimited in most countries, so you can go about your business at hand without having to worry about the costs of making national calls or generating too much data traffic.

Extended availability: flat rates for voice and data are available in 15 FreeMove countries

Fair use: most countries have at least 1000 minutes fair flat for voice and 2GB for data, so the more you use, the lower your per minute/MB costs

National bundle: the majority of national voice and/or data traffic is included and mobile-to-mobile calls are unlimited in most countries

If a lot of your company calls are made to or from abroad, why not talk to your Global Account Manager about FreeMove International Connect for even better value when your people are travelling?
